The Martin Buber Society and the Zukunftskolleg are both interdisciplinarily oriented and support excellent research for early career researchers. Therefore, collaboration and exchange between the two institutions bear high potential and has already proven to be very fruitful.

A “Memorandum of Understanding – To Establish a Program of Scholarly Exchange and Cooperation” has been signed in 2011 and renewed in 2015.

Since 2012, Fellows from the Martin Buber Society and Zukunftskolleg meet regularly for workshops to discuss and work on interdisciplinary topics. The workshops always have two parts – one taking place in Konstanz in summer and the other one in Jerusalem in winter. After “Forgetting” in 2012 and “Mobility” in 2016 this year’s theme will be “Un/certainty”.

This year’s symposium is taking place from June 27 – 30, 2018 in Konstanz and from November 27 – 30, 2018 in Jerusalem. The workshop will leave space for “un/certainty” and discussions throughout the whole workshop. This also means that we provide some un/certainty among the people, which will allow for new experiences.
